Leadership Advice from a Badass

1. How would you define Carla's path to leadership? Does it fit your pre-conception of a traditional leadership path? Why or why not?
2. What part of Carla's story resonated with you most? Why do you think that is?
3. Identify part of Carla's story where, had you been in her shoes at that time, you would have had the impulse to select a different path, react differently or pursue a different course of action. How do you think that choice would have affected the outcome?
4. What was the biggest takeaway from this conversation that you think could be most beneficial to you if applied to your career?
5. What was the biggest takeaway that you think you could beneficially apply to your life beyond work?
6. What tools or habits do you have on-hand on your leadership journey that you're not convinced are serving you? How might you reimagine them creatively, or what could you do differently to increase effectiveness?
7. What questions or realizations has reflecting on Carla's story brought to light for you personally?
8. Look ahead 10 years to yourself having a similar conversation – where are you in your career? How have your leadership responsibilities evolved?
9. As of now, what is missing or has yet to be accomplished from that version of yourself 10 years in the future? What small steps might you take now to move further down that path?
